

July Newsletter

Wherever Summer Takes You, We're With You ♥

This month, we're sharing ways to help you stay connected to your support community throughout the summer. Whether you're at your child's bedside, at home, or taking a much-needed getaway, Momcology is here to walk alongside you. We hope you're able to find moments to rest, recharge, and make meaningful memories with the people you love. We'll be here all summer long, and next month we start preparing for Childhood Cancer Awareness Month in September!

In This Issue

- Watch Our New Caregiver Lounge Webinar on Coping
- Refer a Survivor (18+) to a Paid Study
- Retreat Reflections | West Coast Momcology Retreat
- Moms Take A Stand Celebrates Over $500,000 Raised for Childhood Cancer Research
- Find July Support Programs & Events

New Caregiver Lounge | Coping Skills

Now Streaming on YouTube

Caring for a child with cancer is one of the most intense challenges a parent can face, and the constant pressure to "stay strong" often means caregivers neglect their own needs. Join featured presenters Dr. Colleen Cadigan and Dr. Natalie Nageeb from Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, together with Momcology host Missy Love, for a session that addresses both the emotional and practical sides of childhood cancer caregiving.

Watch Caregiver Coping Skills Webinar

Survivor Study (18+) | C-SHARP

Momcology is proud to collaborate on C-SHARP (Cancer Survivorship Health and Records Project).

Survivors of pediatric or young adult cancer are welcome to join two PAID remote studies on access to important health records in survivorship.

Check out the link below to learn more and to refer the study to a survivor at least 18 years old.

Having access to medical records after completing treatment provides childhood cancer survivors with peace of mind and greater independence as they transition into adulthood. This access enables them to take control of their medical data, monitor the late effects of their treatment, and ensure better continuity of survivorship care throughout their lives. We want to learn directly from survivors about their data preferences with these goals in mind.

Visit & Learn More about C-SHARP

Refer a Survivor \(18+\) to the Study

Reflections ♥ 2026 West Coast Retreat

When most people think of California, they picture sunshine, surf, and sandy beaches. But, like most things Momcology, we experienced California a little differently.

This spring, we retreated deep into nature among the redwoods, where cool, misty mornings invited us to slow down, breathe deeply, and reconnect. While the air was brisk, the warmth of community wrapped around us from the moment we arrived.

Our very first "Glamping" retreat was one to remember. Over the course of the weekend, attendees found space to rest, reflect, laugh, cry, and heal surrounded by the safe comfort of other women who truly understand what having a child with cancer feels like. Through meaningful conversations, wellness experiences, shared meals, and quiet moments beneath the towering trees, new friendships were formed and lasting memories were made.

The beauty of the redwoods reminded us that even after life's fiercest storms, strength can be found in standing together. We left California with lighter hearts, renewed hope, and the comforting reminder that none of us are alone.

"For most of the retreat I was the quiet listener, taking in other's stories, emotions, strength and pain, but at the very end, all the feelings I had been holding finally came out, and somehow we all ended up crying together. Having a child with cancer while far from family can feel incredibly lonely. This retreat reminded me how important it is to have people who understand, and it made me think about all the Mongolian moms going through the same journey alone back home. I hope one day I can support them the way I was supported this weekend."

♥ Bolor Narankhuu, Buku's Mom

"This retreat was the first deep breath I've taken in 10 years. After carrying the weight of childhood cancer, the previous loss of a child, and years of trauma, I found a place where I felt safe, understood, and truly supported. Momcology gave me the space to begin healing my heart, release years of guilt, and realize it's okay to grieve and heal at the same time. I left with lifelong friendships, renewed hope, and a heart full of gratitude. Momcology gave me an incredible gift, and it has changed my life."

♥ Kellie Prime, Kyle's mom

Our 2026 Momcology Retreats are made possible through the generosity of Day One Biopharmaceuticals, Servier Pharmaceuticals, The Andrew McDonough B+ Foundation, Connor's Heroes, and the heartfelt support of our Momcology community through fundraising and direct donations. Because of your support, women are able to experience the strength of our community through meaningful connections that remind them they are never alone.

Thank you for helping create a space of comfort and healing for mothers who already carry so much.

Join the Waitlist for our Maryland Retreat

Make a Donation to our Retreat Program

Moms Take A Stand | New Milestone

We did it! ♥

TOGETHER WE'VE RAISED

$500,000+

FOR KIDS WITH CANCER!

5 Years 42 States 653 Stands $529,876

10,598 Hours of Research Funded

Join us
We're not done yet!

Benefiting: Alex's Lemonade Stand

Momcology

Together, We've Raised More Than $500,000 for Childhood Cancer Research!

What started as families coming together to make a difference has grown into something extraordinary. Together, the Momcology community has now raised more than $500,000 through Moms Take A Stand, helping fund lifesaving childhood cancer research through Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation.

This milestone belongs to every caregiver, family member, friend, neighbor, coworker, and supporter who chose to stand with children fighting cancer. Thank you for making hope possible.

But we're just getting started.

You can still make an impact by hosting a lemonade stand, virtual fundraiser, dine and donate, workplace fundraiser, or any creative event that brings your community together. Every dollar raised helps move childhood cancer research forward and brings us one step closer to better treatments and cures.

Ready to make a difference? Register your Moms Take A Stand fundraiser today and help us build on this incredible momentum. Together.

Register Your Stand

Join a Momcology Program Event in July

July 11 @ 10am Eastern
Connections | CHOP

July 14th @ 6pm Eastern
Connections | Levine Children's Hospital

July 14th @ 8pm Eastern
Dadology | Fireside Chat

July 15th @ 7pm Eastern
Connections | DFCL/Boston Children's

July 16th @ 7pm Eastern
Nightcap | Bereaved Parent Support

July 18th @ 11am Eastern
Dadology | Fireside Chat

July 19th @ 10:30am Eastern
In Person Coffee Break | Apex, NC

July 25th @ 10am Eastern
Yoga & Conversation | Virtual

Register & Find More Momcology Events

Questions? Let us know how we can help ♥

Contact Us

Copyright © 2026 Momcology. All rights reserved.

Want to change how you receive these emails?
You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list